

PICILLO FARM EVIDENCE REVIEW
HOECHST CELANESE CORPORATION
(Conducted by the Contract Evidence Audit Team under EPA Contract No. 68-W0-0001 - December 1, 1993)

Hoechst Celanese Corporation [Generator]
(formerly American Hoechst Corporation)

Superfund Records Center

SITE: Picillo

BREAK: 11.9

OTHER: 644237

Transporters

Scientific Chemical Processing, Inc. (SCP):

There are invoices, purchase orders, and shipping orders from 6/2/77 to 10/3/78 indicating that SCP transported wastes for American Hoechst. Disposal records indicate that American Hoechst's wastes were sent to SCP's facilities in Newark, NJ and Carlstadt, NJ [1].

Chemical Control Corporation (CCC):

There are invoices, account ledgers, checks, purchase orders, and receiving reports from 1/7/76 to 10/6/77 indicating that CCC transported waste for American Hoechst [1].

Waste Types

SCP disposed of the following wastes for American Hoechst: para nitroaniline, carbon residue from p. chlorobiphenyl, hydrogen sulfate, waste methanol, xylene, chlorobenzene, methyl glycol acetate, dimethoxy aniline, morpholine, throphenol, quinoline, meta dinitrobenzene, hexanol, diethoxy phenol morpholine, and dimethylformamide [1].

CCC disposed of the following wastes for American Hoechst: aceto acet P toluidide, methyl phenol hydrochloride, phenolic resins, sorbic acid, polyvinyl acetate, xylene/ethyl glycol, aluminum hydroxychloride, sodium phosphite, manganese II chloride, carbon residue, barium acetate, 2-4 dichloro-4-nitro phenyl ether, benzyl chloride, dicyandiamide, and nitrosulfuric acid [1].

John Leo's drum log states that containers with American Hoechst markings contained azoplate and naphthol sulfonic acid [2].

Additional Information

Warren Picillo testified that American Hoechst barrels were delivered to the Picillo Site on "Danny's trucks," which he later identified as United Sanitation trucks from "Danny Capuano's place" [3].

SEMS DocID

644237

Sources

[1] Site File, Break 11, American Hoechst.

[2] PRP Binder.

[3] Litigation Report, 9/30/85, p. 19 (Warren Picillo, 6/18/82, at 132).